The time, two hours and fortyeight minutes, is excellent, and as soon as we get the mainland papers and see the way the race was run we will be able to draw comparisons between the new man and the rest of the bunch.

So Bat Nelson, after all his music hall stunts and his taking of things easy in training, managed to put his kindly hand on Dick Hyland and lull him to sleep. It was just about what could be expected, as Hyland is one of the ever-increasing bunch of hasbeens. Nelson, on the other hand, is about the best example of a lightweight that the world has ever seen; his capacity for taking punishment is marvelous, and he never knows when he is licked. By taking over twenty rounds to beat Hyland, Nelson shows that be was not in his best form, and it is thought that the Coast papers will pulled him through to victory
